For years #ExxonMobil has pursued spending and strategic plans that position it to succeed only in the absence of a material long-term #energy demand shift, and it remains positioned for continued value destruction for decades to come under alternate scenarios. It is equally poor long-term planning to rely almost exclusively on the idea that #carbon capture will become scalable and affordable soon enough to allow for continued oil and gas production growth for decades to come under a Paris-compliant trajectory. #ReenergizeExxon

While #ExxonMobil has publicly and regrettably dismissed #carbonemission reduction targets as a "beauty competition," such targets have more than cosmetic value to investors.

A Board that has underperformed this dramatically and defied shareholder sentiment for this long has not earned the right to choose its own new members or pack itself in the face of calls for change. ExxonMobil shareholders deserve a Board that works proactively to create long-term value, not defensively in the face of deteriorating returns and the threat of losing their seats. #ReenergizeExxon
