New CCS projects and partnerships under evaluation as of 2021 include:

Article

- U.S. Gulf Coast – ExxonMobil is assessing multiple CCS projects along the U.S. Gulf Coast that have the potential to collect millions of tonnes of CO₂ from industrial sources for storage in onshore and offshore geologic formations. Included in these projects is a CCS hub concept in Southeast Texas.
- Wyoming, USA – ExxonMobil has progressed permitting for the expansion of its La Barge CCS facilities, which could enable an additional one million tonnes of CO₂ per year to be captured. Existing facilities currently capture approximately 7 million tonnes per year, which is the largest amount of CO₂ captured by any industrial facility in the world.
- Netherlands – ExxonMobil has executed a joint development agreement to advance its interest in the Port of Rotterdam CO₂ Transportation Hub and Offshore Storage project, known as Porthos. The Porthos project aims to collect CO₂ emissions from industrial sources and transport them by pipeline to depleted North Sea offshore gas fields. Porthos and its potential customers have applied for EU and national support mechanisms. ExxonMobil also participates in the H-Vision study into large-scale production of low-carbon hydrogen in Rotterdam.
- Belgium – ExxonMobil is participating in the multi-stakeholder CCS project at the Port of Antwerp, Europe's largest integrated energy and chemicals cluster. The project, which would collect CO₂ emissions from industrial sources for storage, recently applied for support from the European Union.

- Scotland – Through its joint venture in the SEGAL system in Northeast Scotland, ExxonMobil is progressing discussions to support the Acorn project, which will collect CO₂ from the St. Fergus gas processing complex for transport and storage in offshore gas reservoirs.
- Singapore – ExxonMobil is planning a CCS hub concept to capture, transport and permanently store CO₂ generated by industrial activity in the Asia-Pacific region. The project concept is based on a plan to capture CO₂ emissions from Singapore manufacturing facilities for storage in the region.
- Qatar - ExxonMobil is a partner in several existing joint ventures with Qatar Petroleum that operate a CCS project with an annual capacity of 2.1 million tonnes at Ras Laffan. ExxonMobil is evaluating opportunities to add additional capture capacity in the region. The new projects will complement ExxonMobil's current carbon capture capacity in the United States, Australia and Qatar, which totals about 9 million tonnes per year, the equivalent of planting 150 million trees every year.
